

TELL SANTA WHAT TO BUY AND YOU MAY OBTAIN $20.

Evening World Gives
Five Prizes of $20
Each for Suggestions
Concerning Christmas Gifts—You May Be a Lucky One.

Get busy now and think out how you would spend $20 for Christmas gifts for a family of six persons. If you make a good job of the effort you will win one of the 120 prizes which The Evening World has offered for the solution of this really momentous problem. Then you can take the money and lay it out according to the schedule that won it, and you will know that no one else in New York, with possibly four exceptions, is getting as much for his money as you are.

The Evening World makes this offer because the demands of Christmas time are always greater on the purse than the purse can stand. Cynics may not want to believe it, but there are few people who are not more generous than they can afford to be, and so the further a dollar can be made to go the happier everybody will be.

The offer in brief is this: To those of its readers who suggest the best possible schedule of gifts for a family of six to be purchased with $20 The Evening World will give $20. The family may consist of father, mother, grandfather, grandmother and two children or any other combination so long as there are two children in it who are

HERLIHY CASE NOT QUASHED.

Appellate Division of the Supreme Court Reverses
Goff's Decision.

Recorder Goff's action in allowing a demurrer to the indictment charging Police Captain Herlihy with willful neglect of duty was reversed today by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court. The decision is of the utmost importance in its effect on the trials of police officials.

The indictment against Capt. Herlihy contained a list of 19 charges which were alleged were committed during the time that Capt. Herlihy was in command of the 42d Street station.

The demurrer to the indictment set up that the technical charge should be confined to a certain specified disorderly house, otherwise the accused would have to make a defense to all of the alleged disorderly places mentioned in a general way in the indictment. Recorder Goff concurred in this view and allowed the demurrer, which was tantamount to quashing the indictment.

The case was taken to the Appellate Division by District Attorney Philip. When he heard of the Court's ruling, the District Attorney said: "This decision is very important. It reads it as a very great advantage in the cause of justice. It will remove all restrictions to the trial of a police official for willful neglect of duty on technical grounds, and will relieve the District Attorney of the necessity of prosecuting on the technical charge concerning one alleged disorderly house. The view held by the Recorder is the one that was shared by nearly all the prominent practitioners at the criminal bar."

USUAL THIRTY-DAY DELAY LAID ASIDE.

Philip Forward's Diamond Trial
Minutes from Albany to Commissioner Murphy.

It is expected at the Tombs that Wardman Bissert will start for Sing Sing to serve his term about next Monday. Word was received from Washington today that, in accordance with the motion of District Attorney Philip, the usual delay of thirty days in signing mandates had been done away with in the Bissert case by the United States Supreme Court and that the Bissert mandate had been signed and would be forwarded to-day.

It should reach here to-morrow. Then an order will have to be secured from the United States Circuit Court delivering Bissert to the custody of the Sheriff, who will take the convicted wardman to Sing Sing.

Coincident with the receipt of news concerning Bissert from Washington the District Attorney received the minutes of the trial of Capt. Diamond from Albany. He immediately forwarded these minutes to Commissioner Murphy for his guidance in determining whether or not to put Diamond off the police force.

HOCHSTIM MUST GO TO SING SING.

Notorious East Side Leader Sentenced for Interfering with an Election Officer.

Moche Hochstim is going to Sing Sing. Under an indeterminate sentence passed upon him by Judge Cowing today in Sessions this morning, he must serve not less than one or more than three years in State's prison.

In "De Ate" District, where Hochstim has been for years a power, above all law and order, the news has created consternation, beyond the power of words to express.

Hochstim is one of the typical east-side Tammany leaders. From a barefooted match-peddler he had grown to wealth and power. He was feared, second, and hardly less than Martin Finkel, Tammany leader in the Eighth District, whom he served as chief lieutenant.

On election day two years ago Deputy Commissioner of Elections William M. Chapman was into a collision with the Fifth Precinct of the Eighth Assembly District to serve a election on James Bassett, a Tammany election official. Hochstim stepped between the man and the deputy and blocked off the official until Bassett escaped.

Hochstim laughed then. When a warrant was issued for him Hochstim laughed. What chance was there for a Tammany leader to be punished for an election offense? As long as Tammany's District Attorney was in office, Hochstim was not worried.

The advent of Mr. Philip put a different face on things. Hochstim found he would have to stand trial. His attorney, Al Levy, entered a general denial for him. It was useless against the testimony of the State's witnesses.

In passing sentence this morning Judge Cowing said:

"You were convicted of interfering with a duly appointed officer who was doing his duty in trying to maintain honest elections. The law is important because it is the wish of every honest citizen that there be honest elections. Unless there are honest elections revolution would follow soon. We owe it to him who is caught trying to evade and nullify this law. If I had my way I would disfranchise the person caught trying to vote illegally or purchasing or selling his vote."

Mr. Levy gave notice when sentence was passed of appeal, saying he would test the constitutionality of the indeterminate sentence law. Hochstim will not go to prison pending action on his attorney's motion of appeal.

Hochstim's Career Here.

Hochstim came to New York from Warsaw, Poland, in his fifteenth year. He is now thirty-seven. First he was a peddler, then a glazier, but he made his first money in the ice business.

After he ran away to Boston with a friend's wife, and from there to Cincinnati to escape police attention, he returned to New York and became a Tammany leader.

He was a captain at Delancey and Sullivan streets. His operations as a bossman at the Essex Market Court made him wealthy. Then he opened the Sun Shop, a corner hall on Third Avenue near Fourteenth Street.

During the Parkhurst raids Hochstim's place got much attention and one night there was a pitched battle between his followers and the Parkhurst agents. Hochstim is credited with making many gambling places. He is today a very wealthy man. The annual office of the Hochstim Association is one of the notable events of lower east side. The function will probably be postponed this year.

The Magistrate, who says he is afraid of nothing, opened one of the packages. He found it consisted of a four-inch metal pipe. Hochstim was not worried. In the other package there was a similar piece of pipe.

Mr. Goldenkrantz, before the packages were opened, told the Court he believed there was a conspiracy to kill him. He said he believed they had been sent to him by a man formerly in his employ. He gave the name of the man, and asked that a warrant be issued for his arrest.

The warrant was refused, but a summons was issued.

BOMBS HE FEARED WERE ONLY FAKES

Carefully carrying two small packages, Dr. Solomon Goldenkrantz, one of the Coroners' clerks, entered the New York Court this afternoon. He told Magistrate Mott he had received them through the mail and believed them to be infernal machines.

ASKS POLICE TO FIND FATHER.

WILLIAM FRANKIE MISSING
SINCE NOV. 4.

Was Divorced from His Wife and Had Trouble with Several Women.

The police have been asked by John Frank to look for his father, William, who has been missing since Nov. 4. William Frank was in charge of the transfer department of the American Bank Note Company with a salary of $1000 a year, and was happy and contented until a wife learned of his fondness for a Mrs. School and desired an absolute divorce. Then Mrs. School was visited by a young woman from Jamaica who threatened to kill her if she did not attend any attentions from Mr. Frank. Still another woman called at the Bank Note Company's office and quarreled with him, and John Frank thinks that the combination of trouble unhinged his father's mind so that he "wandered off in a dazed condition."

The missing man is forty-two years old, six feet tall and has a long red beard.

NO DRINK MONEY, HE KILLED HIMSELF

CIVIL-SERVICE CLERK ENDED
SPREE IN SUICIDE.

Mother Refused to Give Him Funds and He Carried Out Threat to Die.

Henry Conroy, a clerk in the Civil Service Bureau in Borough Hall, Brooklyn, was found dead in bed by his mother this morning at their home, No. 41 Ninth Street. He had committed suicide by drinking gas.

Conroy's death was the result of a protracted spree. He was a clever clerk and had held important positions in the city's employ, but his habits had reduced him to a small clerkship. For some time he had been drinking so heavily that he was unable to attend to his work.

Saturday he drew his money and went on a spree. Last night he returned home and asked his mother for money. He threatened suicide when she refused him. He had made similar threats so often that she paid no heed to him.

Going to his room, he drew his bed out into the middle of the floor, so that when he lay down the end of a tube from the gas jet would reach his mouth.
